

WHITE PAPER : THE PERFECT BAND TRIP

Many school bands take performance trips to provide their participants with an educational experience that cannot be obtained in the classroom. From Pearl Harbor, to Carnegie Hall, to the European exchange concerts, a well-planned band performance tour can introduce students to new music, new destinations, and new cultures.

Many bands choose to perform in adjudicated educational music festivals. Companies like Choice Music Events produce a wide variety of events each year allowing students to perform for a panel of educationally-minded band adjudicators. Music festivals are often run in conjunction with an entertainment-based awards ceremony at an area attraction.

For groups that are looking for a more customized experience, Director's Choice Tour & Travel specializes in finding and creating performance opportunities geared to the exact needs of each group. From nationally televised parades to private performances in world-renowned concert venues, each ensemble can enjoy a performance experience that will create a lifetime of memories.
